

Jayson Mamaclay

These bios can be used for speaking engagement that Jayson is appearing at. If edits are needed, feel free to contact Jayson at jayson.mamaclay@gmail.com for the necessary changes.

Background-focused Bio

Jayson Mamaclay (he/him) is a vice president at Norman Professional Services, which provides fractional CFO and outsourced accounting services that elevate the financial literacy and strengthen the financial backbone of small businesses across the US. Jayson’s background includes being a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) with PricewaterhouseCoopers in New York City as well as opening his own small business as an escape room owner in the Chicago suburbs. Jayson’s unique combination of experience allows him to bring big-business financial acumen and practices to the small-business landscape to help Norman Professional Services and its clients make their small business growth dreams come true.

Company-focused Bio

Jayson Mamaclay (he/him) is a vice president at Norman Professional Services, which provides fractional CFO and outsourced accounting services that elevate the financial literacy and strengthen the financial backbone of small businesses across the US. For lots of entrepreneurs, business success and growth comes from doing good work and loving what you do – but chances are, numbers likely aren’t their strong suit. Eventually, a company needs more intentional attention to financials in order to sustainably grow, and there may be some fear, guilt, or shame held by some business leaders for being “found out” that they don’t really understand their numbers like they feel like they should. For those entrepreneurs, the team at NPS prides itself in being trusted advisors that can gently provide the financial literacy an entrepreneur needs to truly manage and grow their businesses.